Review and approval of content at Rutgers IT website

Who is responsible for the review and approval of content?

What is the review and approval process?

When ready for review, content Content is created or revised. If author changes status from content was previously published, Draft to Pending Review and use Revisionize (see below). notifies editor. Status is changed to Content is reviewed by Pending Review. appropriate editor. Revisions needed. Content is Author and/or editor Status changed from approved and make changes. Pending Review to published. Draft Revisionize allows authors and editors to create a new version of content even as the existing content remains "live" at the website. When the Revisionize version is approved by the appropriate editor, the Revisionize version replaces the existing version.