Colleagues:

I am pleased to announce a new universitywide agreement to provide Adobe Creative Cloud to the Rutgers community. Adobe Creative Cloud brings a host of creative tools to Rutgers for a variety of uses, from academics to student life to communications.

Adobe Creative Cloud is available now for Rutgers faculty, staff, students, and registered guests.

How do I get started with Adobe Creative Cloud?
Visit our Adobe website to set up an Adobe account and gain access to Adobe apps and other tools.

What applications are included?
Our agreement provides access to Adobe's most widely used software for photography, graphic design, video, illustration, web design, and more. Adobe Premiere, Photoshop, Illustrator, InDesign, After Effects, Acrobat, and many other popular Adobe tools are included. View a complete list.

What learning resources are available for Adobe Creative Cloud?
Our Adobe website includes links to a variety of Adobe tutorials and support, including an Adobe for Educators section with strategies for using Adobe in the classroom.

Questions?
For questions about Adobe Creative Cloud, please consult our Adobe FAQ. You can also contact your department's IT staff or the Office of Information Technology Help Desk.

We are excited about this new initiative for Rutgers, and we look forward to working with you as we bring Adobe Creative Cloud to the Rutgers community.

Thanks,

Michele Norin
Senior Vice President and Chief Information Officer
